It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

A quorum, consisting of a majority of the whole number of the members, being present.

The House proceeded, by ballot, to the choice of a Speaker, and, upon examining the ballots, it appeared that HENRY CLAY, one of the Representatives for the State of Kentucky, was duly elected;

Whereupon,

Mr. Clay was conducted to the Speaker's chair, and the oath to support the Constitution of the United, as prescribed by the act, entitled "An act to regulate the time and manner of administering certain oaths;" was administered to him by Mr. Newton, one of the members for the State of Virginia; after which he made his acknowledgment to the House in the following words:

Gentlemen: Again called, by your favorable opinion, to the distinguished station to which I have been frequently assigned by that of your predecessors, I owe to you the expression of my most respectful thanks; and I pray you to believe that I feel inexpressible gratitude, as well for the honor itself, as for the flattering manner in which it has been conferred. In our extensive confederacy, gentlemen, embracing such various and important relations, it must necessarily happen that each successive session of the House of Representatives will bring with it subjects of the greatest moment. During that which we are now about to open, we have every reason to anticipate that the matters which we shall be required to consider, and to decide, possess the highest degree of interest. To give effect to our deliberations; to enable us to command the respect of those who may witness or be affected by them; and, to entitle us to the affection and confidence of our constituents, the maintenance of order and decorum is absolutely necessary. Being quite sure that your own comfort, your sense of propriety, and the just estimate which you must make of the dignity which belongs to this House, will induce you to render to the chair your cordial co-operation; I proceed to discharge its duties with the sincere assurance of employing my best exertions to merit the choice which you have been pleased to make. And it will be to me the greatest happiness, if I should be so fortunate as to satisfy, in this respect, your expectations.

The oath, or affirmation, to support the Constitution of the United States, as prescribed by the act before mentioned, was then administered by the Speaker to all the other members above mentioned, except S. Smith, of Maryland.

On motion of Mr. Newton,

The House proceeded to the appointment of a Clerk;

Whereupon,

Thomas Dougherty was unanimously appointed.

The same oath, together with the oath of office, prescribed by the said act, were also administered to the Clerk by Mr. Speaker.

On motion of Mr. Nelson, of Virginia,

Ordered, That a message be sent to the Senate, to inform them that a quorum of this House is assembled, that they have elected Henry Clay their Speaker, and are ready to proceed to business; and that the Clerk go with the said message.

John Scott also appeared, produced his credentials, and took his seat as the delegate from the territory of Missouri; the oath to support the Constitution of the United States being first administered to him by Mr. Speaker.

On motion of Mr. Newton,

Resolved, unanimously, That Thomas Dunn be appointed sergeant at arms, Thomas Claxton, door keeper, and Benjamin Burch, assistant door keeper, to the House; and that they severally give their attendance accordingly.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Cutts, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: I am directed to inform this House, that a quorum of the Senate is assembled, and ready to proceed to business. And then he withdrew.

On motion of Mr. Newton,

Resolved, That the rules and orders established by the late House of Representatives, be deemed and taken to be the rules and orders of proceeding to be observed in this House, until a revision or alteration of the same shall take place.

On motion of Mr. Storrs,

Resolved, That the Clerk be directed to furnish the members of this House with such newspapers as they may elect; the expense of each member not to exceed the price of three daily papers.

Mr. Anderson laid before the House a manuscript copy of the constitution adopted by the people of the Alabama territory; which was received and referred to a select committee; and,

Mr. Anderson, Mr. Taylor, and Mr. Pleasants, were appointed the said committee.

On motion of Mr. Nelson, of Virginia,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed on the part of this House, to join such committee as may be appointed on the part of the Senate, to wait on the President of the United States, and to inform him that a quorum of the two Houses is assembled, and ready to receive any communications he may be pleased to make to them.

Mr. Nelson, of Virginia, and Mr. Storrs, were appointed of the said committee on the part of this House.

Ordered, That the Clerk acquaint the Senate therewith.

On motion of Mr. Newton,

Ordered, That the daily hour to which this House shall stand adjourned, be 12 o'clock in the forenoon, until otherwise ordered.

And then the House adjourned.

TUESDAY, December 7th, 1819.

Several other members, to wit: from Pennsylvania, George Denison; from Virginia, Ballard Smith, and from Georgia, William Terrill, appeared, produced their credentials, and took their seats; the oath to support the Constitution of the United States being first administered to them by Mr. Speaker, as, also, to Samuel Smith, of Maryland, who appeared yesterday.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Cutts, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: The Senate concur in the order for the appointment of a joint committee, to wait on the President of the United States, and inform him that a quorum of the two Houses is assembled, and ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make to them, and have appointed a committee on their part. They have passed a resolution for the appointment of a joint committee for Enrolled Bills, and have appointed Mr. Wilson of the said committee on their part. They have also passed a resolution for the appointment of two chaplains to Congress for the present session, one by each House, who shall interchange weekly: in which resolution, they ask the concurrence of this House. And then he withdrew.

The said resolutions were read, and severally concurred in by the House; and, Mr. Darlington, and Mr. Foot, were appointed of the committee for Enrolled Bills on the part of this House.

Ordered, That the Clerk acquaint the Senate therewith.

Mr. Nelson, of Virginia, from the joint committee appointed to wait on the President of the United States, and inform him that a quorum of the two Houses is assembled, and ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make to them; reported that the committee had performed that service, and that the President answered, that he would make a communication to the two Houses of Congress to-day at 12 o'clock.

The following proposition of amendment to the standing rules and orders of the House was submitted by Mr. Little, which was read and ordered to lie on the table, viz:

That the 51st rule of this House be so amended, as that a distinct committee of Manufactures be appointed, as an additional standing committee.

A communication, in writing, was then received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Joseph Jones Monroe, his Secretary, who delivered in the same at the Speaker's table, and withdrew.

The said communication was then read as follows:

ELLOW-CITIZENS OF THE SENATE,
AND OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

The public buildings being advanced to a stage that afford accommodation for Congress, I offer you my sincere congratulations on the recommencement of your duties in the Capitol.

In bringing to view the incidents most deserving attention, which have occurred since your last session, I regret to have to state, that several of our principal cities have suffered by sickness; that an unusual drought has prevailed in the middle and western states; and that a derangement has been felt in some of our moneyed institutions, which has proportionably affected their credit. I am happy, however, to have it in my power to assure you that the health of our cities is now completely restored; that the produce of the year, though less abundant than usual, will not only be amply sufficient for home consumption, but afford a large surplus, for the supply of the wants of other nations; and that the derangement in the circulating paper medium, by being left to those remedies which its obvious causes suggested, and the good sense and virtue of our fellow-citizens supplied, has diminished.

Having informed Congress, on the 27th of February last, that a treaty of amity, settlement, and limits, had been concluded, in this city, between the United States and Spain, and ratified by the competent authorities of the former, full confidence was entertained that it would have been ratified by his Catholic Majesty, with equal promptitude, and a like earnest desire to terminate, on the conditions of that treaty, the differences which had so long existed between the two countries. Every view, which the subject admitted of, was thought to have justified this conclusion. Great losses had been sustained by citizens of the United States, from Spanish cruizers, more than twenty years before, which had not been redressed. These losses had been acknowledged and provided for by a treaty, as far back as the year 1802, which, although concluded at Madrid, was not then ratified by the government of Spain, nor since, until the last year, when it was suspended by the late treaty, a more satisfactory provision to both parties, as was presumed, having been made for them. Other differences had arisen, in this long interval, affecting their highest interests, which were likewise provided for, by this last treaty. The treaty itself was formed on great consideration, and a thorough knowledge of all circumstances, the subject matter of every article having been for years under discussion, and repeated references having been made, by the Minister of Spain, to his government, on the points respecting which the greatest difference of opinion prevailed. It was formed by a Minister duly authorized for the purpose, who had represented his government in the United States, and been employed, in this long protracted negotiation, several years; and who, it is not denied, kept strictly within the letter of his instructions. The faith of Spain was therefore pledged, under circumstances of peculiar force and solemnity, for its ratification.

On the part of the United States, this treaty was evidently acceded to in a spirit of conciliation and concession. The indemnity for injuries and losses, so long before sustained, and now again acknowledged and provided for, was to be paid by them, without becoming a charge on the treasury of Spain. For territory ceded by Spain, other territory of great value, to which our claim was believed to be well founded, was ceded by the United States, and in a quarter more interesting to her. This cession was, nevertheless, received as the means of indemnifying our citizens, in a considerable sum, the presumed amount of their losses. Other considerations, of great weight, urged the cession of this territory by Spain. It was surrounded by the territories of the United States, on every side, except on that of the ocean. Spain had lost her authority over it, and, falling into the hands of adventurers connected with the savages, it was made the means of unceasing annoyance and injury to our Union, in many of its most essential interests. By this cession, then, Spain ceded a territory, in reality, of no value to her, and obtained concessions of the highest importance, by the settlement of long standing differences with the United States, affecting their respective claims and limits, and likewise relieved herself from the obligation of a treaty, relating to it, which she had failed to fulfil, and also from the responsibility incident to the most flagrant and pernicious abuses of her rights, where she could not support her authority.

It being known that the treaty was formed under these circumstances, not a doubt was entertained that his Catholic Majesty would have ratified it without delay. I regret to have to state, that this reasonable expectation has been disappointed; that the treaty was not ratified within the time stipulated, and has not since been ratified. As it is important that the nature and character of this unexpected occurrence should be distinctly understood, I think it my duty to communicate to you all the facts and circumstances, in my possession, relating to it.

Anxious to prevent all future disagreement with Spain, by giving the most prompt effect to the treaty, which had been thus concluded, and, particularly, by the establishment of a government in Florida, which should preserve order there, the minister of the United States, who had been recently appointed to his Catholic Majesty, and to whom the ratification, by his government, had been committed, to be exchanged for that of Spain, was instructed to transmit the latter to the Department of State, as soon as obtained, by a public ship, subjected to his order for the purpose. Unexpected delay occurring in the ratification, by Spain, he requested to be informed of the cause: It was stated, in reply, that the great importance of the subject, and a desire to obtain explanations on certain points, which were not specified, had produced the delay, and that an Envoy would be despatched to the United States, to obtain such explanations of this government. The Minister of the United States offered to give full explanation on any point on which it might be desired; which proposal was declined. Having communicated this result to the Department of State, in August last, he was instructed, notwithstanding the disappointment and surprise which it produced, to inform the government of Spain, that, if the treaty should be ratified, and transmitted here, at any time before the meeting of Congress, it would be received, and have the same effect as if it had been ratified in due time. This order was executed; the authorised communication was made to the government of Spain, and by its answer, which has just been received, we are officially made acquainted, for the first time, with the causes which have prevented the ratification of the treaty, by his Catholic Majesty. It is alleged by the Minister of Spain, that this government had attempted to alter one of the principal articles of the treaty, by a declaration, which the Minister of the United States had been ordered to present, when he should deliver the ratification by his government, in exchange for that of Spain, and of which he gave notice, explanatory of the sense in which that article was understood. It is further alleged that this government had recently tolerated, or protected, an expedition from the United States, against the province of Texas. These two imputed acts are stated as the reasons which have induced his Catholic Majesty to withhold his ratification from the treaty, to obtain explanations, respecting which, it is repeated, that an envoy would be forthwith despatched to the United States. How far these allegations will justify the conduct of the government of Spain, will appear, on a view of the following facts, and the evidence which supports them.

It will be seen, by the documents transmitted herewith, that the declaration mentioned relates to a clause in the 8th article, concerning certain grants of land, recently made by his Catholic Majesty in Florida, which, it was understood, had conveyed all the lands, which, till then, had been ungranted. It was the intention of the parties to annul these latter grants, and that clause was drawn for that express purpose, and for none other. The date of these grants was unknown, but it was understood to be posterior to that inserted in the article: Indeed, it must be obvious to all, that, if that provision in the treaty had not the effect of annulling these grants, it would be altogether nugatory. Immediately after the treaty was concluded, and ratified by this government, an intimation was received that these grants were of anterior date to that fixed on by the treaty, and that they would not, of course, be affected by it. The mere possibility of such a case, so inconsistent with the intention of the parties, and the meaning of the article, induced this government to demand an explanation on the subject, which was immediately granted, and which corresponds with this statement. With respect to the other act alleged, that this government had tolerated, or protected, an expedition against Texas, it is utterly without foundation. Every discountenance has invariably been given to any such attempt from within the limits of the United States, as is fully evinced by the acts of the government, and the proceedings of the courts. There being cause, however, to apprehend, in the course of the last summer, that some adventurers entertained views of the kind suggested, the attention of the constituted authorities in that quarter was immediately drawn to them, and it is known that the project, whatever it might be, has utterly failed.

These facts will, it is presumed, satisfy every impartial mind, that the government of Spain had no justifiable cause for declining to ratify the treaty. A treaty concluded in conformity with instructions, is obligatory, in good faith, in all its stipulations, according to the true intent and meaning of the parties. Each party is bound to ratify it. If either could set it aside, without the consent of the other, there would be no longer any rules applicable to such transactions between nations. By this proceeding, the government of Spain has rendered to the United States a new and very serious injury. It has been stated, that a Minister would be sent, to ask certain explanations of this government. But, if such were desired, why were they not asked, within the time limited for the ratification? Is it contemplated to open a new negotiation respecting any of the articles or conditions of the treaty? If that were done, to what consequences might it not lead? At what time, and in what manner, would a new negotiation terminate? By this proceeding, Spain has formed a relation between the two countries which will justify any measures on the part of the United States, which a strong sense of injury, and a proper regard for the rights and interests of the nation may dictate. In the course to be pursued, these objects should be constantly held in view, and have their due weight. Our national honor must be maintained, and a new and a distinguished proof be afforded of that regard for justice and moderation, which has invariably governed the councils of this free people. It must be obvious to all, that, if the United States had been desirous of making conquests, or had been even willing to aggrandize themselves in that way, they could have had no inducement to form this treaty. They would have much cause for gratulation, at the course which has been pursued by Spain. An ample field for ambition is opened before them. But such a career is not consistent with the principles of their government, nor the interests of the nation.

From a full view of all circumstances, it is submitted to the consideration of Congress, whether it will not be proper for the United States to carry the conditions of the treaty into effect, in the same manner as if it had been ratified by Spain; claiming, on their part, all its advantages, and yielding to Spain those secured to her. By pursuing this course, we shall rest on the sacred ground of right, sanctioned, in the most solemn manner, by Spain herself, by a treaty which she was bound to ratify, for refusing to do which she must incur the censure of other nations, even those most friendly to her; while, by confining ourselves within that limit, we cannot fail to obtain their well merited approbation. We must have peace on a frontier where we have been so long disturbed, our citizens must be indemnified for losses so long since sustained, and for which indemnity has been so unjustly withheld from them. Accomplishing these great objects, we obtain all that is desirable.

But his Catholic Majesty has twice declared his determination to send a minister to the United States, to ask explanations on certain points, and to give them respecting his delay to ratify the treaty. Shall we act, by taking the ceded territory, and proceeding to execute the other conditions of the treaty, before this minister arrives and is heard? This is a case which forms a strong appeal to the candor, the magnanimity, and honor of this people. Much is due to courtesy between nations. By a short delay we shall lose nothing; for, resting on the ground of immutable truth and justice, we cannot be diverted from our purpose. It ought to be presumed that the explanations which may be given to the minister of Spain, will be satisfactory, and produce the desired result. In any event, the delay, for the purpose mentioned, being a further manifestation of the sincere desire to terminate in the most friendly manner all differences with Spain, cannot fail to be duly appreciated by his Catholic Majesty, as well as by other powers. It is submitted, therefore, whether it will not be proper to make the proposed law for carrying the conditions of the treaty into effect, should it be adopted, contingent; to suspend its operation upon the responsibility of the Executive, in such manner, as to afford an opportunity for such friendly explanations, as may be desired during the present session of Congress.

I communicate to Congress a copy of the treaty, and of the instructions to the Minister of the United States at Madrid respecting it; of his correspondence with the Minister of Spain, and, of such other documents as may be necessary to give a full view of the subject.

In the course which the Spanish government have, on this occasion, thought proper to pursue, it is satisfactory to know that they have not been countenanced by any other European power. On the contrary, the opinion and wishes, both of France and Great Britain, have not been withheld, either from the United States or from Spain; and have been unequivocal in favor of the ratification. There is also reason to believe, that the sentiments of the imperial government of Russia have been the same, and that they have also been made known to the cabinet of Madrid.

In the civil war existing between Spain and the Spanish provinces in this hemisphere, the greatest care has been taken to enforce the laws intended to preserve an impartial neutrality. Our ports have continued to be equally open to both parties, and on the same conditions; and our citizens have been equally restrained from interfering in favor of either, to the prejudice of the other. The progress of the war, however, has operated manifestly in favor of the colonies. Buenos Ayres still maintains unshaken the independence which it declared in 1816, and has enjoyed since 1810. Like success has also lately attended Chili, and the provinces north of the La Plata, bordering on it, and likewise Venezuela.

This contest has, from its commencement, been very interesting to other powers, and to none more so than to the United States. A virtuous people may, and will, confine themselves within the limits of a strict neutrality; but it is not in their power to behold a conflict so vitally important to their neighbors, without the sensibility and sympathy which naturally belong to such a case. It has been the steady purpose of this government to prevent that feeling leading to excess, and it is very gratifying to have it in my power to state that, so strong has been the sense throughout the whole community, of what was due to the character and obligations of the nation, that very few examples of a contrary kind have occurred.

The distance of the colonies from the parent country, and the great extent of their population and resources, gave them advantages which it was anticipated at a very early period, it would be difficult for Spain to surmount. The steadiness, consistency, and success, with which they have pursued their object, as evinced more particularly by the undisturbed sovereignty which Buenos Ayres has so long enjoyed, evidently give them a strong claim to the favorable consideration of other nations. These sentiments, on the part of the United States, have not been withheld from other powers, with whom it is desirable to act in concert. Should it become manifest to the world that the efforts of Spain to subdue these provinces will be fruitless, it may be presumed that the Spanish government itself will give up the contest. In producing such a determination, it cannot be doubted that the opinion of friendly powers, who have taken no part in the controversy, will have their merited influence.

It is of the highest importance to our national character, and indispensable to the morality of our citizens, that all violations of our neutrality should be prevented. No door should be left open for the evasion of our laws; no opportunity afforded to any who may be disposed to take advantage of it, to compromise the interest or the honor of the nation. It is submitted, therefore, to the consideration of Congress, whether it may not be advisable to revise the laws, with a view to this desirable result.

It is submitted, also, whether it may not be proper to designate, by law, the several ports or places along the coast, at which, only, foreign ships of war and privateers may be admitted. The difficulty of sustaining the regulations of our commerce, and of other important interests from abuse, without such designation, furnishes a strong motive for the measure.

At the time of the negotiation for the renewal of the commercial convention, between the United States and Great Britain, a hope had been entertained that an article might have been agreed upon, mutually satisfactory to both countries, regulating, upon principles of justice and reciprocity, the commercial intercourse between the United States and the British possessions, as well in the West Indies, as upon the continent of North America. The plenipotentiaries of the two governments not having been able to come to an agreement on this important interest, those of the United States reserved for the consideration of this government the proposals which had been presented to them, as the ultimate offer on the part of the British government, and which they were not authorized to accept. On their transmission here, they were examined with due deliberation, the result of which was a new effort to meet the views of the British government. The Minister of the United States was instructed to make a further proposal, which has not been accepted. It was, however, declined in an amicable manner. I recommend to the consideration of Congress, whether further prohibitory provisions in the laws relating to this intercourse may not be expedient. It is seen, with interest, that, although it has not been practicable, as yet, to agree in any arrangement of this important branch of their commerce, such is the disposition of the parties, that each will view any regulations which the other may make respecting it, in the most friendly light.

By the 5th article of the convention, concluded on the 20th of October, 1818, it was stipulated that the differences which has arisen between the two governments, with regard to the true intent and meaning of the 5th article of the treaty of Ghent, in relation to the carrying away, by British officers, of slaves from the United States, after the exchange of the ratifications of the treaty of peace, should be referred to some friendly sovereign or state, to be named for that purpose. The Minister of the United States has been instructed to name to the British government a foreign sovereign, the common friend to both parties, for the decision of this question. The answer of that government to the proposal, when received, will indicate the further measures to be pursued on the part of the United States.

Although the pecuniary embarrassments which affected various parts of the Union, during the latter part of the preceding year, have, during the present, been considerably augmented, and still continue to exist, the receipts into the Treasury, to the 30th of September last, have amounted to $19,000,000. After defraying the current expenses of the government, including the interest and reimbursement of the public debt, payable to that period, amounting to $18,200,000, there remained in the Treasury, on that day, more than $2,500,000, which, with the sums receivable during the remainder of the year, will exceed the current demands upon the Treasury for the same period.

The causes which have tended to diminish the public receipts, could not fail to have a corresponding effect upon the revenue which has accrued upon imposts and tonnage, during the three first quarters of the present year; it is, however, ascertained that the duties, which have been secured during that period, exceed $18,000,000, and those of the whole year will probably amount to $23,000,000.

For the probable receipts of the next year, I refer you to the statements which will be transmitted from the Treasury, which will enable you to judge whether further provision be necessary.

The great reduction in the price of the principal articles of domestic growth, which has occurred during the present year, and the consequent fall in the price of labor, apparently so favourable to the success of domestic manufactures, have not shielded them against other causes adverse to their prosperity. The pecuniary embarrassments which have so deeply affected the commercial interests of the nation, have been no less adverse to our manufacturing establishments in several sections of the Union. The great reduction of the currency, which the banks have been constrained to make, in order to continue specie payments, and the vitiated character of it where such reductions have not been attempted, instead of placing within the reach of these establishments the pecuniary aid necessary to avail themselves of the advantages resulting from the reduction in the prices of the raw materials, and of labor, have compelled the banks to withdraw from them a portion of the capital heretofore advanced to them. That aid, which has been refused by the banks, has not been obtained from other sources, owing to the loss of individual confidence, from the frequent failures which have recently occurred in some of our principal commercial cities.

An additional cause for the depression of these establishments may probably be found, in the pecuniary embarrassments which have recently affected those countries with which our commerce has been principally prosecuted.

Their manufactures, for the want of a ready or profitable market at home, have been shipped by the manufacturers to the United States, and, in many instances, sold at a price below their current value at the place of manufacture. Although this practice may, from its nature, be considered temporary or contingent, it is not on that account less injurious in its effects. Uniformity in the demand and price of an article, is highly desirable to the domestic manufacturer.

It is deemed of great importance to encourage our domestic manufacturers. In what manner the evils which have been adverted to may be remedied, and how far it may be practicable, in other respects, to afford to them further encouragement, paying due regard to the other great interests of the nation, is submitted to the wisdom of Congress.

The survey of the coast, for the establishment of fortifications, is now nearly completed, and considerable progress has been made in the collection of materials for the construction of fortifications in the Gulf of Mexico, and in the Chesapeake Bay. The works on the Eastern bank of the Potomac, below Alexandria, and on the Pea Patch in the Delaware, are much advanced, and it is expected that the fortifications at the Narrows, in the harbor of New-York, will be completed the present year. To derive all the advantages contemplated from these fortifications, it was necessary that they should be judiciously posted, and constructed with a view to permanence. The progress, hitherto, has therefore been slow; but, as the difficulties, in parts heretofore the least explored and known, are surmounted, it will, in future, be more rapid. As soon as the survey of the coast is completed, which, it is expected, will be done early in the next spring, the engineers employed in it will proceed to examine, for like purposes, the northern and north-western frontiers.

The troops, intended to occupy a station at the mouth of the St. Peters, on the Mississippi, have established themselves there, and those who were ordered to the mouth of the Yellow Stone, on the Missouri, have ascended that river to the Council Bluff, where they will remain until the next spring, when they will proceed to the place of their destination. I have the satisfaction to state, that this measure has been executed in amity with the Indian tribes, and that it promises to produce, in regard to them, all the advantages which were contemplated by it.

Much progress has likewise been made in the construction of ships of war, and in the collection of timber and other materials for ship-building. It is not doubted that our navy will soon be augmented to the number, and placed, in all respects, on the footing provided for by law.

The board, consisting of engineers and naval officers, have not yet made their final report, of sites for two naval depots, as instructed, according to the resolutions of March 18th, and April 20th, 1818, but they have examined the coast therein designated, and their report is expected in the next month.

For the protection of our commerce in the Mediterranean; along the Southern Atlantic coast; in the Pacific and Indian ocean; it has been found necessary to maintain a strong naval force, which it seems proper for the present to continue. There is much reason to believe, that, if any portion of the squadron heretofore stationed in the Mediterranean should be withdrawn, our intercourse with the powers bordering on that sea would be much interrupted, if not altogether destroyed. Such, too, has been the growth of a spirit of piracy, in the other quarters mentioned, by adventurers from every country, in abuse of the friendly flags which they have assumed, that, not to protect our commerce there, would be to abandon it as a prey to their rapacity. Due attention has likewise been paid to the suppression of the slave trade, in compliance with a law of the last session. Orders have been given to the commanders of all our public ships to seize all vessels navigated under our flag, engaged in that trade, and to bring them in, to be proceeded against, in the manner prescribed by that law. It is hoped that these vigorous measures, supported by like acts by other nations, will soon terminate a commerce so disgraceful to the civilized world.

In the execution of the duty imposed by these acts, and of a high trust connected with it, it is with deep regret I have to state the loss which has been sustained by the death of Commodore Perry. His gallantry, in a brilliant exploit, in the late war, added to the renown of his country. His death is deplored as a national misfortune.

JAMES MONROE.

Two messages, in writing, were received from the President of the United States, by Mr. J. J. Monroe, his Secretary, the first of which was read, and is as follows:

TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES:

Some doubt being entertained respecting the true intent and meaning of the act of the last session, entitled "An act in addition to the acts prohibiting the slave trade," as to the duties of the agents, to be appointed on the coast of Africa, I think it proper to state the interpretation which has been given of the act, and the measures adopted to carry it into effect, that Congress may, should it be deemed advisable, amend the same, before further proceeding is had under it.

The obligation to instruct the commanders of all our armed vessels to seize and bring into port all ships or vessels of the United States, wheresoever found, having on board any negro, mulatto, or person of color, in violation of former acts for the suppression of the slave trade, being imperative, was executed without delay. No seizures have yet been made, but, as they were contemplated by the law, and might be presumed, it seemed proper to make the necessary regulations applicable to such seizures for carrying the several provisions of the act into effect.

It is enjoined on the executive to cause all negroes, mulattoes, or persons of color, who may be taken under the act, to be removed to Africa. It is the obvious import of the law, that none of the persons thus taken should remain within the United States; and no place other than the coast of Africa being designated, their removal, or delivery, whether carried from the United States or landed immediately from the vessels in which they were taken, was supposed to be confined to that coast. No settlement or station being specified, the whole coast was thought to be left open for the selection of a proper place, at which the persons, thus taken, should be delivered. The executive is authorized to appoint one or more agents, residing there, to receive such persons; and one hundred thousand dollars are appropriated for the general purposes of the law.

On due consideration of the several sections of the act, and of its humane policy, it was supposed to be the intention of Congress, that all the persons above described, who might be taken under it, and landed in Africa, should be aided in their return to their former homes, or in their establishment at, or near, the place where landed. Some shelter and food would be necessary for them there, as soon as landed, let their subsequent disposition be what it might. Should they be landed without such provision having been previously made, they might perish. It was supposed, by the authority given to the executive, to appoint agents residing on that coast, that they should provide such shelter and food, and perform the other beneficent and charitable offices contemplated by the act. The coast of Africa having been little explored, and no persons residing there, who possessed the requisite qualifications to entitle them to the trust, being known to the executive, to none such could it be committed. It was believed that citizens only, who would go hence, well instructed in the views of their government, and zealous to give them effect, would be competent to these duties, and that it was not the intention of the law to preclude their appointment. It was obvious that the longer these persons should be detained in the United States in the hands of the marshals, the greater would be the expense, and that for the same term would the main purpose of the law be suspended. It seemed, therefore, to be incumbent on me to make the necessary arrangements for carrying this act into effect in Africa, in time to meet the delivery of any persons who might be taken by the public vessels, and landed there under it.

On this view of the policy and sanctions of the law, it has been decided, to send a public ship to the coast of Africa, with two such agents, who will take with them tools, and other implements, necessary for the purposes above mentioned. To each of these agents a small salary has been allowed—fifteen hundred dollars to the principal, and twelve hundred to the other. All our public agents on the coast of Africa receive salaries for their services, and it was understood that none of our citizens, possessing the requisite qualifications, would accept these trusts, by which they would be confined to parts the least frequented and civilized, without a reasonable compensation. Such allowance, therefore, seemed to be indispensable to the execution of the act. It is intended, also, to subject a portion of the sum appropriated, to the order of the principal agent, for the special objects above stated, amounting in the whole, including the salaries of the agents for one year, to rather less than one third of the appropriation. Special instructions will be given to these agents, defining, in precise terms, their duties, in regard to the persons thus delivered to them; the disbursement of the money by the principal agent; and his accountability for the same. They will also have power to select the most suitable place, on the coast of Africa, at which all persons who may be taken under this act shall be delivered to them, with an express injunction to exercise no power founded on the principle of colonization, or other power than that of performing the benevolent offices above recited, by the permission and sanction of the existing government under which they may establish themselves. Orders will be given to the commander of the public ship in which they will sail, to cruize along the coast, to give the more complete effect to the principal object of the act.

JAMES MONROE.

Mr. Cook submitted the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, an enlightened and liberal policy dictates the importance and propriety of rendering the navigable waters of the interior of our common country as extensively subservient to its commercial interests as is practicable: and whereas the importance and utility of the majestic rivers Mississippi and Ohio would be much increased by the establishment of a convenient place of deposit near their confluence: and whereas doubts are entertained as to the eligibility of the site at their immediate junction for that purpose;

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on Roads and Canals be instructed to enquire into the expediency of appointing a suitable number of commissioners, to examine that tract of country lying between the said rivers, with instructions to report to this House at the commencement of the next session of Congress, a topographical description thereof, accompanied with their opinion as to the most expedient plan of adapting a suitable portion thereof to the purpose aforesaid.

And whereas the durability of this government greatly depends upon the equal dispensation of advantages, by Congress, to the different sections of our Union, as well as upon the virtue of the people: and whereas the north is already provided with an academy, at which a proper number of her sons are taught the military art, a perfect knowledge of which is so important to the certain defence of our rights, and so auspicious to the saving of both the blood and treasure of the nation: and whereas the establishment of a national armory in the west, would, in its operations, produce the disbursement of a part of that money in the same quarter from which it is so profusely drained, by the sales of the public lands; and, at the same time, place at the immediate command of the government, and at a suitable position, the necessary arms for the defence of an extensive frontier;

Therefore,

Be it further resolved, That the committee on Military Affairs be instructed to enquire into the expediency of requiring the said commissioners to examine if there be a suitable situation for a military academy and national armory near the junction of the aforesaid rivers; and, also, to examine and ascertain the probable metallic resources of the surrounding country, not exceeding fifty miles distance from the confluence aforesaid, suitable for munitions of war, and report the same to this House, with the report before required.

The House took up, and proceeded to consider, the amendment proposed yesterday by Mr. Lowndes to the rules of the House; which, being read,

Mr. Randolph moved to add to the said amendment the following, viz: Provided, that, in such case, the words in question shall be reduced to writing, and that the member thus called to order shall be at liberty, if he shall so choose, to explain the same.

Mr. Mercer then moved that the amendment of Mr. Lowndes, together with the addition proposed thereto by Mr. Randolph, be laid upon the table; which, being rejected,

Mr. Williams, of North Carolina, moved that the further consideration of the same be postponed until to-morrow.

And, the question being taken thereon,

It passed in the affirmative.

The House took up, and proceeded to consider, the message from the Senate asking a conference upon the subject matter of the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments proposed by the Senate to the bill, entitled "An act for the admission of the state of Maine into the Union;" whereupon,

Resolved, That this House do agree to the conference asked by the Senate upon the subject matter of the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments depending to the bill aforesaid, and that managers be appointed to the same on their part.

Mr. Speaker: The Senate have received official information that the President of the United States did, on the 28th instant, approve and sign enrolled bills of the following titles, to wit:

An act confirming Anthony Cavalier and Peter Petit in their claim to a tract of land; and

An act further to extend the charter of the city of Washington.

The Senate have passed the bill from this House, entitled "An act to continue in force for a further time the act, entitled 'An act for establishing trading houses with the Indian tribes,'" and then he withdrew.

The House took up, and proceeded to consider, the amendments reported by the committee of the whole to the bill to authorize the people of the territory of Missouri to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union on an equal footing with the original states; and, the said amendments being read, were concurred in by the House, with the exception of the following: "And shall ordain and establish, that there shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said state, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted: Provided, always, that any person escaping within the same, from whom labor or service is lawfully claimed in any other state, such fugitive may be lawfully reclaimed, and conveyed to the person claiming his or her labor, or service, as aforesaid: Provided, nevertheless, that the said provision shall not be construed to alter the condition or civil rights of any person now held to service or labor in the said territory."

The question was then stated to concur in the said amendment; when,

Mr. Storrs moved to amend the same by striking out these words: "And shall ordain and establish that;" and, in lieu thereof, to insert the following, to wit:

"And be it further enacted, that the following propositions be, and the same are hereby, offered to the said convention, for their free acceptance or rejection, to be incorporated into the constitution of the said state, as articles of compact between the said state and the United States, viz: "That there be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said state, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted: Provided, always, that any person escaping within the same from whom labor or service is lawfully claimed in any other state, such fugitive may be lawfully reclaimed, and conveyed to the person claiming his or her labor or service, as aforesaid: Provided, nevertheless, that the said provision shall not be construed to alter the condition or civil rights of any person now held to service or labor in the said territory."

Mr. Pinckney, from the committee appointed upon the subject, reported a bill to restore to all the states, which have, in cessions, omitted to retain the same, the jurisdiction of the territory ceded to the United States for forts, arsenals, dockyards, and barracks, so far as respects the execution of their state laws, for the prevention and punishment of crimes, and recovery of debts; which was read the first and second time, and committed to a committee of the whole on Monday next.

The House took up, and proceeded to consider, the bill to authorize the President of the United States to appoint a receiver of the public moneys, and register of the land office, for the district of Lawrence county, in the Arkansas territory; and the said bill being amended, was ordered to be engrossed, and read a third time tomorrow.

On motion of Mr. Rhea,

On motion of Mr. Cobb,

On motion of Mr. Bateman,

On motion of Mr. Hooks,

A message, in writing, was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. J. J. Monroe, his Secretary, which was read, and is as follows, viz:

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

In compliance with a resolution of the House of Representatives of the 4th of February last, requesting to be informed what progress has been made in surveying certain parts of the coast of North Carolina, and in ascertaining the latitude and longitude of the extreme points of Cape Hatteras, Cape Look Out, and Cape Fear, according to a resolution of the 19th of January, 1819, I have to state, that it is intended to carry the resolution of the 19th of March into effect in the present year. The co-operation of the board of engineers with naval commissioners being necessary in executing that duty, and the board having been engaged last year in surveying the eastern coast of our Union, it would have interfered with previous arrangements, and been attended with increased expense, had they been withdrawn from

it. The board will, however, be employed during the present summer in the regular execution of its duties in the survey of the coast of North Carolina, when instructions will be given it to afford the necessary aid to carry the resolution of the 19th of January, of the last year, into effect.

JAMES MONROE.

Washington, March 1, 1820.

The House then resolved itself into a committee of the whole on the bill making appropriations for the support of the navy of the United States, for the year 1820; as, also, on the bill making appropriations for the military service of the United States, for the year 1820; and on the bill making appropriations for the support of government, for the year 1820; and, after some time spent therein, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Nelson, of Virginia, reported that the committee had made some progress in the said bills, and directed him to ask leave to sit again.

An act to continue in force the act, entitled "An act to provide for reports of decisions of the supreme court," approved the third of March, 1817; and

An act to establish a district court in the state of Alabama; and, after some time spent therein, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Storrs reported the first and last mentioned bills, with amendments to each, and asked leave for the committee of the whole to sit again on the second mentioned bill.

And that the following provision be added to the bill:

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That, in all that territory ceded by France to the United States, under the name of "Louisiana," which lies north of thirty-six degrees and thirty minutes north latitude, not included within the limits of the state contemplated by this act, slavery and involuntary servitude, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall be, and is hereby, for ever prohibited: Provided, always, that any person escaping into the same, from whom labor or service is lawfully claimed in any other state or territory of the United States, such fugitive may be lawfully reclaimed, and conveyed to the person claiming his or her labor or service, as aforesaid.

The amendment to the title to add the words, "and to prohibit slavery in certain territories," was then also concurred in.

And so all the amendments being concurred in, the bill was passed by the two Houses.

Ordered, That the Clerk acquaint the Senate therewith.

And the House adjourned.

FRIDAY, March 3, 1820.

The Journal of the proceedings of the House on yesterday being read,

Mr. Randolph moved the House to re-consider their vote of yesterday, by which they concurred in the first amendment proposed by the Senate to the bill from this House, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the territory of Missouri to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union on an equal footing with the original states."

Mr. Speaker declared the motion out of order, until the call for petitions from the members from each state, and from the delegates from the territories, as well as the reports from the standing and select committees, shall have been gone through, and disposed of, as is required by the rules and orders of the House.

From which decision of the Speaker, Mr. Randolph appealed to the House.

And, on the question, Is the decision of the Speaker correct?

It passed in the affirmative.

Mr. Fuller presented a petition of Joseph E. Sprague, praying compensation for his services as a commissioner, appointed by the circuit court of the United States for the first circuit, to examine witnesses in certain causes, then pending in the supreme court, wherein the United States were claimants; which petition was referred to the Committee of Claims.

Mr. Nelson, of Massachusetts, presented a petition of sundry inhabitants of Newburyport, and its vicinity, in the state of Massachusetts, owners of vessels employed in the fisheries, and others concerned therein, praying that the second, third, and fourth sections of the act of the 29th of July, 1813, allowing a bounty on the exportation of certain pickled fish, may be repealed, and that the allowance made to the owners of vessels employed in the cod fishery, may be extended to those employed in the mackerel fishery; which petition was referred to the Committee of Ways and Means.

Mr. Boden presented a petition of sundry inhabitants of the borough of Carlisle, in the state of Pennsylvania, praying that further protection may be extended to the manufacturing interest of the country; which petition was referred to the Committee on Manufactures.

The Speaker having announced, that "Petitions are in order from the members from Virginia," Mr. Randolph rose, and moved the House to retain in their possession the bill, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the territory of Missouri to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union on an equal footing with the original states," until the period shall arrive, at which, according to the rules of the House, a motion to re-consider the vote of yesterday on concurring in the first amendment proposed by the Senate to the bill aforesaid, would be in order.

Mr. Speaker declared the said motion out of order, for the reasons assigned on a former motion of the same gentleman, on this day.

Mr. Butler, of Louisiana, presented a petition of Alexander A. White, praying for a confirmation of his title to a tract of land lying in the state of Louisiana; which petition was referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

Mr. Anderson, from the Committee on the Public Lands, made a report on the petition of Charles Henry du Pasquier, and others, Swiss emigrants in the United States; which was read, and the resolution therein contained was concurred in by the House, as follows:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Mr. Anderson, from the same committee, also made a report on the petition of Evariste Mauri; which was read, and the resolution therein contained was concurred in by the House, as follows:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Mr. Anderson also made a report on the petition of James Shields, accompanied with a bill for his relief; which bill was read the first and second time, and committed to a committee of the whole, to-morrow.

Mr. Sergeant, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported a bill to continue in force the act, entitled "An act to protect the commerce of the United States, and punish the crime of piracy;" which was read the first and second time, and committed to a committee of the whole, to-morrow.

Mr. Livermore, from the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads, made an unfavorable report on the petitions of Joseph Timberlake, of John Hutchinson, of Thomas Macy, of Alexander Barr, of James Swehey, of William Brough, of Thomas F. Vaught, of Joseph E. Sprague, and of sundry inhabitants of Georgetown, in the state of Delaware, on behalf of the post-master at that place; which was read, and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Livermore, from the same committee, to which was referred the bill from the Senate, entitled "An act in addition to an act, entitled "An act regulating the post-office establishment," reported the same without amendment.

Ordered, That the said bill be read a third time to-morrow.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Cutts, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: The Senate ask a further conference upon the subject matter of the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments proposed by the Senate to the bill of this House, entitled "An act providing for the admission of the state of Maine into the Union," to which they have appointed managers on their part; and then he withdrew.

The House took up, and proceeded to consider, the said message; whereupon,

Resolved, That this House do agree to the further conference asked by the Senate upon the subject matter of the disagreeing votes on the amendments depending to the said bill.

Ordered, That Mr. Holmes, Mr. Hill, and Mr. Taylor, be appointed managers at the said conference on the part of this House.

Ordered, That the Clerk acquaint the Senate therewith.

Mr. Randolph, of the majority on that question, moved the House to reconsider their vote of yesterday, in which they concurred in the first amendment proposed by the Senate to the bill of this House, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the territory of Missouri to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union on an equal footing with the original states."

The Speaker, having ascertained the fact, informed the House that the proceedings of yesterday, on that bill, had been officially communicated to the Senate by the Clerk; whereupon,

Mr. Randolph moved the following resolution:

Resolved, That, in carrying the bill, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the territory of Missouri to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union on an equal footing with the original states," after a member from Virginia had given notice of his intention to move a reconsideration of the question decided last evening, in which the said member, viz: Mr. Randolph, voted in the majority on one of the amendments thereto, the Clerk is guilty of a breach of the privileges of a member of this House, under the rules thereof.

The question was taken, Will the House now proceed to consider the said resolution?

And determined in the negative.

Mr. Randolph then submitted the following proposition, viz:

"That so much of the 37th Rule as allows a reconsideration of any question, by motion of a member of the majority on such question, on the day succeeding that on which such question be taken, be expunged."

The said proposition was read, and ordered to lie on the table for one day.

On motion of Mr. Gross, of New-York,

Ordered, That when the House adjourns, it will adjourn to meet again on Monday next.

The House then took up, and proceeded to consider, the proposition to amend the rules and orders of the House, submitted by Mr. Lowndes on the 28th ultimo, and the amendment thereto proposed by Mr. Randolph, stated on the Journal of that day.

The question recurred on the said amendment; when,

Mr. Pindall moved that the proposition of Mr. Lowndes, and the amendment offered by Mr. Randolph, be referred to the Committee of Elections; which, being rejected,

Mr. Pindall moved that the said proposition and amendment be postponed indefinitely; which, being also rejected,

Mr. Randolph withdrew his said amendment.

And the question was then taken, Will the House agree to the proposition to amend the rules and orders as submitted by Mr. Lowndes, in the words following, viz:

"And if any member shall not confine himself to the question under debate, and shall be called to order, if the decision of the Speaker, or of the House upon appeal, be against the member thus deviating from the question, such member shall not be, at that time, permitted to proceed, without the special leave of the House;"

And determined in the negative, { Yeas.....63,

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to the committee of the whole to which is committed the report of the Committee of Claims on the petition of John Cowan.

A message, in writing, was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Joseph J. Monroe, his Secretary, which is as follows:

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

I transmit to Congress an extract of a letter from the minister plenipotentiary of the United States at St. Petersburg, of the 1st of November last, on the subject of our relations with Spain, indicating the sentiments of the Emperor of Russia respecting the non-ratification, by his Catholic Majesty, of the treaty lately concluded between the United States and Spain, and the strong interest which his Imperial Majesty takes in promoting the ratification of that treaty. Of this friendly disposition, the most satisfactory assurance has been since given directly to this government by the minister of Russia residing here.

I transmit, also, to Congress, an extract of a letter from the minister plenipotentiary of the United States at Madrid, of a later date than those heretofore communicated; by which it appears that, at the instance of the charge des affaires, of the Emperor of Russia, a new pledge had been given by the Spanish government, that the minister who had been lately appointed to the United States should set out on his mission without delay, with full powers to settle all differences in a manner satisfactory to the parties.

I have further to state, that the governments of France and Great Britain continue to manifest the sentiments heretofore communicated respecting the non-ratification of the treaty by Spain, and to interpose their good offices to promote its ratification.

It is proper to add, that the governments of France and Russia have expressed an earnest desire that the United States would take no step, for the present, on the principle of reprisal, which might possibly tend to disturb the peace between the United States and Spain. There is good cause to presume, from the delicate manner in which this sentiment has been conveyed, that it is founded in a belief, as well as a desire, that our just objects may be accomplished without the hazard of such an extremity.

On full consideration of all these circumstances, I have thought it my duty to submit to Congress whether it will not be advisable to postpone a decision on the questions now depending with Spain, until the next session. The distress of that nation, at this juncture, affords a motive for this forbearance, which cannot fail to be duly appreciated. Under such circumstances, the attention of the Spanish government may be diverted from its foreign concerns, and the arrival of a minister here be longer delayed. I am the more induced to suggest this course of proceeding from a knowledge that, while we shall thereby make a just return to the powers whose good offices have been acknowledged, and increase, by a new and signal proof of moderation, our claims on Spain, our attitude in regard to her will not be less favorable at the next session than it is at the present.

JAMES MONROE.

Washington, March 27, 1820.

On motion of Mr. Pindall, it was then

Ordered, That the said bill be re-committed to the Committee of Ways and Means, with instructions so to amend the same, as to remit only that portion of the forfeiture which has accrued to the use of the United States.

The House took up, and proceeded to consider, the bill in addition to an act, entitled "An act to provide for certain persons engaged in the land and naval service of the United States in the revolutionary war," passed on the 18th of March, 1818; and the said bill being read,

Mr. Barbour moved to amend the same, by striking out the third section, and inserting, in lieu thereof, the following:

SEC. 3: And be it further enacted, That the act to which this is an amendment shall be so construed as that no person shall be entitled to its provisions whose property is of the value of which value shall be taken from the estimation of the court to which the schedule shall be exhibited, and which is herein before required to be certified to the Secretary of War.

And, the question being taken thereon,

It was determined in the negative.

Mr. Whitman then moved an amendment, to strike out the whole of the said bill, except the enacting clause, and to substitute, in lieu thereof, the following:

SEC. 1. That every person who may hereafter apply for a pension under the act to which this in addition, shall file with the judge who may administer the oath in relation to the service of the applicant, an additional affidavit, specifying the kinds, and the amount in value of each kind, of all and singular his goods, chattels, lands, and tenements, rights and credits, if any, of which he may be seized and possessed at the time of making his application; and, also, the income, if any, he may have from any other source, and comprising his ability to labor in aid of his subsistence; and exhibiting the state, and degree, of his reduced circumstances in life, and of his need of assistance from his country for support; and declaring that he has not, since the passage of the act to which this is in addition, in any manner alienated, assigned, transferred, sold, or conveyed, any portion of his estate, or in any manner incumbered the same, with a view to become entitled to the benefit thereof: which affidavit, being corroborated by other testimony, to the satisfaction of the judge, and being certified by him, to have been so proved, shall be forwarded to the Secretary of War, with the other papers of the applicant, required by the act to which this is in addition.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of War shall be, and he hereby is, required, whenever he shall have been informed, and whenever he shall have good cause to apprehend, and shall, in fact, apprehend, that a pension has been granted, under the act to which this is in addition, to any person not justly entitled thereto, he shall cause notice thereof to be given to such pensioner, who shall, thereupon, file his affidavit, in the same manner, and comprising the same particulars, as are herein further provided, in the case of all further applications under the act to which this is in addition; and containing any other facts which the Secretary of War may prescribe to, and require of, such applicant, in relation to his term of service, and the corps or line in which he may have served; and the affidavit, being so filed, proved, and certified, shall be forwarded to the Secretary of War, who, on inspection thereof, shall decide whether such pensioner be entitled to his pension, and shall continue or revoke the same accordingly; and no pension shall be paid to any pensioner, which shall have become due, after notice, as aforesaid, from the Secretary of War, that his right to a pension has become doubtful, until the Secretary of War shall have decided, on inspection of the affidavit so to be forwarded, that the pensioner is justly entitled thereto.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of War shall cause each of the district attorneys and marshals of the United States to be furnished with a list of the pensioners residing within their respective districts; and it shall be the duty of the said attorneys and marshals to acquaint the Secretary of War with every case in which they may apprehend that any person has been unduly placed on the pension list; and it shall, moreover, be the duty of the said attorneys to lay such lists before the grand jurors, at each and every term of the courts of the United States at which a grand jury shall be assembled, and examine each and every of them, as to any knowledge he may have of any person on said list who shall not be justly entitled to said pension; and any attorney who, on such enquiry, shall have reason to apprehend that any person named on said list has no just claim to a pension, he shall acquaint the Secretary of War therewith.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That any person, being the agent or attorney of any pensioner, shall, before he shall receive the pension which shall at any time become due to his constituent or principal, declare, on oath, or affirmation, before some magistrate competent to administer the same, that he has not, directly or indirectly, either as the creditor of his constituent or principal, or otherwise, any claim to, or contract in, the money, or any part of it, which he may be about to receive; and that he will, without unnecessary delay, pay over the money he may receive, without deducting any fee or reward therefor, other than that which he may pay to a magistrate for authenticating the documents required to entitle him, as agent or attorney, to receive such pension, to the pensioner, personally, or to his guardian, executor, or administrator, entitled to receive the same.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That, if any person whatever, shall withhold any pension certificate from any pensioner, his guardian, executor, or administrator, lawfully entitled to the possession of the same, under any pretence whatever, after reasonable notice and demand to deliver the same, he shall forfeit and pay to the person entitled to the possession of such certificate, to and for the use of such pensioner, his heirs, or assigns, twice the amount of any sum that, at the time of making such demand, shall be due, or that shall become due thereon at any time before the surrender of such certificate to the person justly entitled to the possession thereof; to be recovered by action of debt, in any court proper to try the same.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That, in case of the insanity of any person entitled to the benefits of the act to which this is in addition, his application therefor may be made by guardian, or the person or persons to whom, by law, the custody of such insane person, his goods and effects, shall have been assigned, who shall state the facts, a statement of which would, otherwise, have been required of such insane person; and shall swear, or affirm, that the same are true, according to the best of his or their knowledge and belief; and shall, also, produce other evidence of the truth thereof, to the satisfaction of the judge who shall attend to the verification of such facts.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That any person who shall, wittingly and willingly, testify falsely in relation to any matter and thing required by this act, shall be deemed and taken to be guilty of the crime of perjury; and, being thereof convicted, shall be punished accordingly.

Mr. Scott moved to amend the said bill by inserting therein two new sections, to come in as the fifth and sixth sections thereof, to wit:

"SEC. 5. Be it enacted, &c. That every person, or the legal representatives of every person, who has actually inhabited and cultivated, and who now resides upon any tract of land lying in any district established for the sale of public lands, which tract is not rightfully claimed by any other person, such person, so residing as aforesaid, or his legal representative, shall be entitled to a preference in becoming the purchaser from the United States of such tract of land, at private sale, upon the same terms and conditions, in every respect, as have heretofore been provided by law for the sale of other lands sold at private sale: Provided, That no more than one quarter section of land shall be sold to any one individual in virtue of this act, and the same shall be bounded by the sectional and divisional lines run, or to be run, according to law: Provided, also, That no lands reserved from sale by former acts, or lands which have been directed to be sold in town lots, shall be sold under this act.

"SEC. 6. Be it further enacted, That every person claiming a preference in becoming the purchaser of a tract of land in virtue of this act, shall make known his claim by delivering a notice, in writing, to the register of the land office for the district in which the land may be, wherein he shall particularly designate the quarter section he claims; which notice the register shall file in his office, on receiving twenty-five cents from the person delivering the same. And, in every case where it shall appear to the satisfaction of the register and receivers of public moneys of the land office that any person, who has delivered his notice of claim, is entitled, according to the provisions of this act, to a preference in becoming the purchaser of a quarter section of land, such person, so entitled, shall have a right to enter the said quarter section, or half thereof, with the register of the land office, on producing his receipt from the receiver of public moneys for at least one-twentieth part of the purchase money, as in case of other lands sold at private sale: Provided, That all lands to be sold under this act, which shall not have been previously exposed to public sale, shall be entered with the register at least two weeks before the time which may be appointed for the commencement of the public sale thereof. And every person, having a right of preference in becoming the purchaser of a tract of land, who shall fail so to make his entry with the register within the time prescribed, his right shall be forfeited, and the land by him claimed shall be offered at public sale with the other public lands in the district to which it belongs."

Mr. Brent also delivered in the following message, in writing:

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

I communicate to Congress a correspondence which has taken place between the Secretary of State and the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of his Catholic Majesty, since the message of the 27th March last, respecting the treaty which was concluded between the United States and Spain, on the 22d February, 1819.

After the failure of his Catholic Majesty, for so long a time, to ratify the treaty, it was expected that this minister would have brought with him the ratification; or, that he would have been authorized to give an order for the delivery of the territory, ceded by it, to the United States. It appears, however, that the treaty is still unratified, and that the minister has no authority to surrender the territory. The object of his mission has been to make complaints, and to demand explanations, respecting an imputed system of hostility, on the part of citizens of the United States, against the subjects and dominions of Spain, and an unfriendly policy in their government, and to obtain new stipulations against these alleged injuries, as the condition on which the treaty should be ratified.

Unexpected as such complaints and such a demand were, under existing circumstances, it was thought proper, without compromising the government, as to the course to be pursued, to meet them promptly, and to give the explanations that were desired, on every subject, with the utmost candor. The result has proved, what was sufficiently well known before, that the charge of a systematic hostility being adopted, and pursued by citizens of the United States, against the dominions and subjects of Spain, is utterly destitute of foundation; and that their government, in all its branches, has maintained, with the utmost rigor, that neutrality, in the civil war between Spain and the colonies, which they were the first to declare. No force has been collected, nor incursions made from within the United States, against the dominions of Spain; nor have any naval equipments been permitted, in favor of either party, against the other. Their citizens have been warned of the obligations incident to the neutral condition of their country; the public officers have been instructed to see that the laws were faithfully executed; and severe examples have been made of some who violated them.

In regard to the stipulation proposed, as the condition of the ratification of the treaty, that the United States shall abandon the right to recognize the revolutionary colonies in South America, or to form other relations with them, when, in their judgment, it may be just and expedient so to do, it is manifestly so repugnant to the honor, and even to the independence of the United States, that it has been impossible to discuss it. In making this proposal, it is perceived, that his Catholic Majesty has entirely misconceived the principles on which this government has acted, in being a party to a negotiation so long protracted, for claims, so well founded and reasonable, as he likewise has the sacrifices which the United States have made, comparatively, with Spain, in the treaty, to which it is proposed to annex so extraordinary and improper a condition.

Had the Minister of Spain offered an unqualified pledge that the treaty should be ratified by his Sovereign, on being made acquainted with the explanations which had been given by this government, there would have been a strong motive for accepting and submitting it to the Senate, for their advice and consent, rather than to resort to other measures for redress, however justifiable and proper; but he gives no such pledge; on the contrary, he declares, explicitly, that the refusal of this government to relinquish the right of judging and acting for itself, hereafter, according to circumstances, in regard to the Spanish colonies, a right common to all nations, has rendered it impossible for him, under his instructions, to make such engagement. He thinks that his Sovereign will be induced, by his communications, to ratify the treaty; but still, he leaves him free, either to adopt that measure, or to decline it. He admits, that the other objections are essentially removed, and will not, in themselves, prevent the ratification, provided the difficulty on the third point is surmounted. The result, therefore, is, that the treaty is declared to have no obligation whatever; that its ratification is made to depend, not on the considerations which led to its adoption, and the conditions which it contains, but on a new article, unconnected with it, respecting which a new negotiation must be opened, of indefinite duration and doubtful issue.

Under this view of the subject, the course to be pursued would appear to be direct and obvious, if the affairs of Spain had remained in the state in which they were when this Minister sailed. But, it is known, that an important change has since taken place in the government of that country, which cannot fail to be sensibly felt, in its intercourse with other nations. The minister of Spain has essentially declared his inability to act in consequence of that change. With him, however, under his present powers, nothing could be done. The attitude of the United States must now be assumed, on full consideration of what is due to their rights, their interest, and honor, without regard to the powers or incidents of the late mission. We may, at pleasure, occupy the territory which was intended and provided, by the late treaty, as an indemnity for losses so long since sustained by our citizens; but still, nothing could be settled definitively without a treaty between the two nations. Is this the time to make the pressure? If the United States were governed by views of ambition and aggrandizement, many strong reasons might be given in its favor. But they have no objects of that kind to accomplish; none which are not founded in justice, and which can be injured by forbearance. Great hope is entertained that this change will promote the happiness of the Spanish nation. The good order, moderation, and humanity, which have characterised the movement, are the best guarantees of its success. The United States would not be justified, in their own estimation, should they take any step to disturb its harmony. When the Spanish government is completely organized, on the principles of this change, as it is expected it soon will be, there is just ground to presume, that our differences with Spain will be speedily and satisfactorily settled.

With these remarks I submit it to the wisdom of Congress, whether it will not still be advisable to postpone any decision on this subject until the next session.

JAMES MONROE.

Resolved unanimously, by the House of Representatives of the United States of America, That the thanks of this House be given to the Hon. HENRY CLAY, Speaker thereof, for the dignity, ability, and impartiality, with which he has discharged the duties of that station.

Upon which, Mr. CLAY rose, and addressed the House as follows:

GENTLEMEN: The House of Representatives has, on former occasions, honored me by a vote of its thanks. I then felt that the sole claim which I had to a testimony of the public approbation, so distinguished, was the zeal with which I have ever sought to discharge the highly responsible duties of the chair; and I am now sensible that I am indebted to your belief of the continued exertion of that zeal for the fresh proof of your favorable sentiments towards me, in the resolution which you have just adopted.

If, gentlemen, the traveller parts with regret from those agreeable acquaintances which he casually makes, as he journeys on his way, how much more painful must be the separation of those who have co-operated many months in the anxious endeavor to advance the prosperity of a common country; who have been animated by mutual sympathies; and who have become endeared to each other by an interchange of all the friendly offices incident to the freest social intercourse? Addressing you as I now do, probably the last time from this place, I confess I feel a degree of emotion which I am utterly unable to express. I shall carry with me into that retirement which is necessary to the performance of indispensable private duties, a grateful recollection of all your kindnesses; of the respectful and affectionate consideration of me which you have always evinced; of the generous and almost unlimited confidence which you have ever reposed in me; and of the tenderness with which you have treated even my errors. But, interesting as have been the relations in which I have stood, for many years, to this House, I have yet higher motives for continuing to behold it with the deepest solicitude. I shall regard it as the great depository of the most important powers of our excellent constitution; as the watchful and faithful centinel of the freedom of the people; as the fairest and truest image of their deliberate will and wishes; and as that branch of the government where, if our beloved country shall unhappily be destined to add another to the long list of melancholy examples of the loss of public liberty, we shall witness its last struggles and its expiring throes.

Gentlemen, I beg you to carry with you my sincerest wishes for your individual happiness, and the prosperity of your respective families.

Mr. FOOT, from the Joint Committee for Enrolled Bills, reported that the Committee had presented to the President of the United States for his approbation, enrolled bills of the following titles, to wit:
